Was Ireland really ‘changed utterly’ after the Easter Rising? We invite you to participate in the National Museum of Ireland’s history conference for senior cycle students where you will debate, discuss, and reflect on the legacy of the 1916 Easter Rising alongside historians, museum curators and fellow students. Conference programme will include tours of the new Proclaiming A Republic: The 1916 Rising exhibition.
Donal Fallon

Donal is a historian and writer based in Dublin. He is a co-founder of the popular ‘Come here to me’ blog as well as having been published in History Ireland, Jacobin, the Irish Independent and Totally Dublin. Donal also recently authored the John McBride biography as part of 16 Lives series published by O’Brien press.

Liz Gillis

Liz is the author of a number of books on Modern Irish History including Women of the Irish Revolution, Revolution in Dublin and The Fall of Dublin. She also recently co-authored We were there: 77 women of Easter Rising with Mary McAuliffe focusing on the women imprisoned in Richmond Barracks following the Easter Rising.

Sandra Heise

Sandra is curator of the Historical and Easter Week collections at the National Museum of Ireland. She was also lead curator on the newly-opened exhibition, Proclaiming a Republic: The 1916 Rising, located in the former Riding School at Collins Barracks.

Booking Information

Bookings are limited to one table per school to allow for a diverse mix of schools. Each table seats 10 persons (Including teacher). To apply for a table for your school please contact our bookings office on 01 6486453 or email bookings@museum.ie

#NMIER1916
#1916Rising